Sentence Sermons by El Paso Ministers

CERTAINTY in the matter of salvation is much to be desired. It arises from true knowledge. First, I must know myself; second, I must know God, and third, I must know Jesus Christ. This knowledge brings full assurance of salvation so that with Paul one may say, "I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him."—Rev. W. S. Huggett, Highland Park Methodist church.

"The life here and hereafter ought to be the same and we should live accordingly. Christ has said, 'The kingdom of God is within you,' meaning that the joy of heaven really begins here in this life. Jesus Christ is the center and joy of heaven. To have Christ, therefore, is to have heaven."—Rev. Henry C. Schneider, Altura Presbyterian church.

Holiness should be the chief end of a well ordered life. Holiness is a supreme regard for the will of God. It renders the soul supremely happy. "Without holiness no man shall see the Lord." "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."—Rev. G. W. McCall, Central Baptist church.

The idea generally prevails that all men should stand on a level. Therefore everybody seems busy in trying to dig under some man and let them down, and fill up under other men and raise them up, but men cannot be leveled.—Dr. Floyd Poe, First Presbyterian church.

El Paso is building up, substantial progress. The chamber of commerce is unifying and stimulating energy. Is every Christian rallying to the church to make the building up of the Master's kingdom keep pace with the development of our city.—Rev. Watson M. Fairley, Westminster Presbyterian church.

Why eliminate the holy spirit as a factor in salvation? To ignore is the most effective way to eliminate.—Rev. Hubert M. Smith, Ashbury Methodist church.

The refinements of selfishness in modern times has become so exquisite and attractive it is difficult to believe, sometimes, that it is selfishness. The fruits of selfishness, however, are just as ugly and hideous as ever. It is this everlasting self-seeking that is making the world so miserably unhappy. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."—J. A. S.—Rev. Milo Atkinson, First Christian church.

GLENN BROOMS

In selecting a broom a person should use as much discretion as would be used in the selection of any other household necessity. You can buy a broom for most any price, but always remember that a cheap broom is never worth the price, no matter how little you pay for it. You will always find it more than pays you to purchase a good broom, one that will last.

Glenn's Royal Family

In calling attention to our Royal Family, we introduce our KING, QUEEN, PRINCE and PRINCESS. These brooms are without a peer in the broom world. They are made of the very choicest Rio Grande Valley broom corn, which by the way is the best broom corn grown. For elasticity and resilience it has no equal. We pay four or five times as much for this corn as we would have to pay for dwarf or western corn. And while the cheaper grade of corn would make up to look well, it would never do anything like the work the Rio Grande corn will do.

Remember, that we absolutely guarantee these brooms and stand behind them with our whole reputation. If one should ever prove defective, your dealer will cheerfully make it good.
